Nine-year-old Josefina, the youngest of four sisters living in New Mexico in 1824, tries to help run the household after her mother dies.

Josefina hopes to become a "curandera" or healer like Ti+a7a Magdalena, and she is tested just before her tenth birthday when her Pueblo Indian friend Mariana receives a potentially fatal snakebite. Simultaneous.

Josefina fears that the Christmas holidays--and one special tradition in particular--will not be the same after the death of her Mama+a7, and she is delighted when la Noche buena, Christmas Eve, brings surprises for all.

In 1825 when Josefina trusts a trader in Santa Fe with an important deal, she makes a surprising discovery about this young American who leaves town without paying her.

Josefina and her sisters distrust the changes their Tia Dolores is bringing to life at their New Mexico ranch.

Nineyearold Josefina wants to give up learning to play the piano until she sees how much joy her music gives to her baby nephew, in a new American Girls title which discusses the importance of music on the New Mexican frontier and describes how to dance La Vaquerita.

Josefina and her sisters are shocked when Ti+a7a Dolores announces that she plans to leave the rancho and they search for ways to persuade her to stay. Simultaneous.

Includes excerpt for 'Sunlight and shadows' (pages 192-198).

In the early 1800s, when nine-year-old Josefina accompanies her father into the New Mexican mountains to check on the elderly shepherd who works for him, she proves herself a good traveling companion when her father has an accident.

In 1824 New Mexico, nine-year-old Josefina is happy when her grandparents and aunt come to visit, but she thinks she must choose between meeting her grandmother's expectations and being true to herself. 35,000 first printing.
